

ภาษาอังกฤษ

(Structure and Writing)

ผศ.ดร.พนิตนาฏ ชูฤกษ์

Structure and Writing
-----------------------

Read the following statement and choose the underlined part that is grammatically wrong.

1. Next to the tiger and the lion, the leopard is the most formidable and destructive of the flesh-eaten mammals.

1

2

3

4

2. Dr Jason knew everything about nature that could be learned by devotedly and accurate observation.

1

2

3

4

3. Nowhere we can find the kind father like hers.

1

2

3

4

4. Apartheid, which ended in early 1990s, was a policy of racial segregation in South Africa.

1

2

3

4

5. Having missed the English class because her watch stops, Milk went to the teacher and asked for the assignment.

1

2

3

4

6. The nanny doesn't feel pleased with the shoes she has on: addition, she doesn't care for the scarf she is wearing.

1

2

3

4

7. The interesting-designed stairway leads directly to a large dining room, where everyone met for dinner Thursday evenings.

1

2

3

4

8. You cannot compare economics with their emphasis on money matters, with political science, which examines how power is used.

4

9. While working in Tokyo, the new salesman was able not only to follow up on inquiry
1 2
letters, but as well as to find promising marketing opportunities.

3

4

10. In its Sealab program, the United States Navy has studied the possible of having 1 2 3
people living beneath the ocean.

4

11. According to the technology is fairly new, it is still relatively expensive.

1

2

3

4

12. There were never any secrets among my brother and me when we were growing up.

1

2

3

4

13. Our director understood that it was we, Penny and me, who had made the business

1      2      3                      4 successful.

1

2

3

4

14. It is essential turning off the power before throwing the main switch.

1

2

3

4

15. The bill of lading was setting on the counter when Jon returned to the office.

1

2

3

4

16. My cousin, Angela, she has lived in California for more than ten years, now enjoys working there, too.
1
2
3

4

17. The passenger had only a twenty-dollars bill with him when he boarded the bus.

1

2

3

4

18. Most people felt much more comfortable due to they had heard that good news.

1                      2                      3                      4

19. All of the secretaries were quiet frustrated with their new responsibilities, which they did not understand.

1                      2                      3                      4

20. By the end of the year, much of the workers who were laid off should have good

1                      2                      3                      4 employment opportunities.

Vocabulary
------------

1. When Sara was sick, her voice was almost inaudible. We couldn't hear what she was trying to say clearly.
2. Some people perished in the accident of a ten - wheel truck collided head on with a big bus.
3. A blue bonnet , a Texas flower, dies in wet but thrives in dry.
4. Bats sleep during the day and emerge at night to find fruit or catch insects to eat.
5. The snake slithered through the grass. He was hunting.
6. Sir Richard Burton was an intrepid explorer who risked his life to find out more about part of Africa to which no European had ever been before.
7. Many psychologists have tried to unravel the secret of sleep without success. Sleep remains a mystery. Even the sleeper himself cannot say what happens while he is asleep.
8. The ramifications of cooking were very important to my grandmother. In other words, everything connected with cooking - the ingredients, the process, and the results- had special meaning to her.
9. Our new alarm system will wake up the entire neighborhood if an intruder gets in the house.
10. "I am going to rescind the permission I gave you to use my toys!" T. J. announced angrily. "I thought you would take good care of them, but I was wrong!"

Reading Comprehension

The history of Hollywood consists of alternating cycles of euphoria and despair, of confidence and uncertainty, of boom and bust. The boom periods, Hollywood's "golden ages" are characterized not only by profits and artistic successes, but also by active communication between moviemakers and moviegoers which reflects shared values. On the other hand, the busts periods are marked by decreased profits, a scarcity of masterworks, and the absence of communication between filmmakers and their audience. Historically, Hollywood crises have been associated with technological innovation: the coming of sound in the late 1920s brought an end to the great age of silent film; the coming of television in the fifties speeded up the decline of the studio system; and the increased popularity of cable television and video recorders in the late 1970s marked the end of Political Hollywood, the brief but very golden age of the late sixties and early seventies, when films reflected American concerns with political themes.

1. What is the most appropriate title for this passage?

1. Silent Films in Hollywood
2. Successful Hollywood Films
3. Historical Hollywood Films
4. History of Hollywood's Film Industry

2. The word "euphoria" (line 1) can be replaced by .....

- |              |               |
|--------------|---------------|
| 1. happiness | 2. admiration |
| 3. fear      | 4. worry      |

3. In addition to profits, what else can be an indication of Hollywood's success?

- |                              |                              |
|------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 1. good studio system        | 2. advanced technology       |
| 3. big number of movies made | 4. production of good movies |

4. According to the passage, how many crises has Hollywood gone through?

- |          |         |
|----------|---------|
| 1. one   | 2. two  |
| 3. three | 4. four |

5. Based on the pattern of Hollywood's history, what can be expected of Hollywood after a crisis?

1. It will decline even more.
2. It will establish a new technology.
3. It will offer a new set of shared values.
4. It will come up with more innovations and prosper again.